No federal sewer money coming, predicts Hyde

Valley Community Services District Director Ron Hyde believes that the Environmental Protection Agency will not fund any sewer capacity expansion in the valley.

Hyde made that statement at a joint Sewer Committee meeting between VCSD and the city of Pleasanton Wednesday afternoon.

"It's my opinion we're going to get turned down" said Hyde. "It seems we should take some affirmative steps to start covering ourselves" Hyde told the group of elected officials and staffers present.

The EPA two weeks ago told VCSD and Pleasanton that the two agencies' environmental impact reports (EIRs) on the proposed expansion of the VCSD sewage treatment facility to 8 million gallons a day (mgd) were inadequate. Thus the EPA will have to prepare its own Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) and delay a final decision on the federal funding of the expansion until next summer.

EPA has no real authority over the expansion except that it will determine whether any federal funds will be used in the expensive expansion.

The same is true of the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency pipeline that will connect with the East Bay Discharger's Association (EBDA) pipeline.

Dan Murphy of LAVWMA and the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency (BASSA) told the two VCSD board members — Hyde and Lila Euler — and the two Pleasanton city council members — Ed Kinney and Joyce Le Claire — that EPA approval of the LAVWMA pipeline will be partly dependent on guarantees of sufficient local financing in the valley.

Since there are no plans to go before valley voters for approval of bonds for the LAVWMA pipeline until November of 1976, that means EPA approval of that project is over a year away.

Pleasanton also will have to delay asking its citizens for more money to construct a pipeline from its present Sunol Boulevard plant to the VCSD plant until after the EPA action next summer City Manager Bill Edgar indicated that the city was planning to go to the voters in the spring, but now that item too may be on the November 1976 ballot.

Meanwhile, renovation of the Sunol Boulevard plant has to be continued. Edgar told the group that Pleasanton has spent nearly $500,000 on that plant in the last two years to get it in compliance with Regional Water Quality Control Board standards.

That money would have been used to defray costs of the pipeline from the old plant to the VCSD facility. Now, those funds will have to come from the voters.

VCSD General Manager Paul Ryan reported that the district is pursuing approval of expansion of the plant from its present 4 mgd capacity to 5 mgd. However, a grease problem — di-octyl-phthalate — may delay that expansion until the source of the material is tracked down.

Historical Society project

Nostalgia at museum

PLEASANTON — Tucked behind the racetrack grandstand on a tree-shaded portion of the fairgrounds, the Amador Livermore Valley Historical Society's museum is so obscure it goes unnoticed by many.

"It's a biggy day if 10 people come in here," said its curator, Ann Lewis. "We're small; we don't have an awful lot."

Even if hordes of sightseers were to suddenly descend upon the museum, they would scarcely know it was open.

Vistors are greeted by closed doors even during the open hours, which are from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. from Tuesdays to Fridays.

But a little sign encourages vistors to push a doorbell, and in a few moments Mrs. Lewis appears to escort anyone who wants to see the museum inside.

She says she feels lonely on the deserted fairgrounds and since her office is in the back of the museum building, she prefers to keep the place locked.

Last year, the museum was broken into three times.

But, fortunately for those who have donated their treasurers for display, the museum last summer was for the first time equipped with a burglar alarm.

The historical society, which is more than 10 years old and has about 250 members, has accumulated enough artifiacts from the early days to display a complete barrel-maker's shop, a blacksmith's shop, a dentist's office and a laundry room from the early 1920s.

The society is particularly proud of its complete barrel-maker's shop, which it owns, Mrs. Lewis quipped, "lock, stock and barrel."

There is also a current exhibit of fossils from area colleges and collectors, which will be displayed in an open house Oct. 14 from 1 p.m to 4 p.m.

The Sunday open houses help compensate for the museum's daytime, weekday schedule, which limits its access to families who might otherwise come to visit.

The society also has volunteers who take the exhibits into schools, or lead tours for classes that want to visit.

But, as might be expcted, the museum has its greatest number of visitors during fair season. And next year, for the bicentennial celebration, the society will invite more than a dozen other arpa historical societies to come to the fairgrounds with their exhibits.

It is ironic that Pleasanton, with its emphasis upon the heritage theme, houses such a small historical museum.

But Mrs. Lewis said that a museum grows slowly, fed by artifacts that are sometimes donated only reluctantly. Its $10,000 grant from the county is not enough to purchase items for display.

Mrs. Lewis is the only employe of the museum, which opened in 1973 in the donated building on the fairgrounds.

She lives in Livermore, has run the museum for two years, and holds a master's degree in history from Cal State San Jose.

Final decision next month

BART bus schedule maintained

A Bay Area Rapid Transit District director hinted Thursday that feeder bus service between BART stations and the valley and Contra Costa points will be proposed to continue through next June at or near its present level.

At the same time, Robert Allen, BART director representing the valley, said the ultimate decision will probably not be made before the board's second meeting (Oct. 23) next month

In the mean time, present AC Transit service to and from the valley will continue. Frank Herringer, BART general manager, had said back in July service would continue through Oct. 1 with a decision to either curtail, continue or cut being made by then.

However, as The Times reported last week, the report is not expected to be ready for board review until the second meeting in October.

Allen also touched on the central theme for the report, as noted initially by Herringer when the report was authorized, by commenting that economies must be effected and the feeder bus service was one area the new BART general manager felt must be looked at thoroughly.

Allen gave further indication Thursday that some sort of combining or streamlining of routes might be in the offing.

At a meeting of BART directors Thursday, night and weekend service on the rail lines was approved with the proviso that the state provide the money.

A state transit bill which would do just that is waiting to be signed by Gov. Edmund Brown, Jr.

BART directors James Hill of Walnut Creek, Harvey Glasser of Alameda and Elmer Cooper of San Francisco drafted a resolution which passed unanimously at the meeting.

If Brown signs the bill, the regional Metropolitan Transportation Commission would be asked to allocate BART the money needed to institute "in a graduated fashion" night and then weekend service.

But while the BART board authorized night and weekend service, a BART systems engineer Tuesday testified before a state Public Utilities Commission task force that the system's central train control computer might have trouble expanding to full night and weekend service.

Study involves all elements

Amador accreditation extension

PLEASANTON— Extending of Amador Valley High's accreditation is the goal of a steering committee headed by faculty members Virginia Patten and George Jacobson.

They were named as co-chairpersons this week by principal Ralph Laird.

The self-study will involve all students, the classified staff, and the community served by the school. The school has been continuously accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges since 1960.

Other members of the steering committee are Tom Himmelberg, assistant principal; Shirley Welch, counseling secretary, and Janet Despotakis, student body president.

Laird reports that the self evaluation will take several months. He stated further that various subcommittees will summarize the strength and weakness of each segment of the school as well as of the school as a whole.

Adds Mrs Patten, "The evaluation will concentrate on the extent to which the major purposes of the teaching and learning activities are being accomplished."

Laird commented, "Following the completion of the self-study, the school will be visited by a group of educators from outside the district. This group will analyze the school self-study, confer with school personnel, students, and community members, and prepare conclusions concerning the strengths and limitations of the school as a whole and its various segments. These recommendations should help us in our continuing efforts to improve the quality of the school."

According to Laird, "This self-evaluation process takes a great deal of work by many people, but the rewards are equally great."

The Western Association of Schools and Colleges, one of six accrediting associations in the United States, is an independent, voluntary association of secondary schools and institutions of higher education in California, Hawaii, Guam, and American schools in the Far East.

Currently, some 1,300 secondary schools, and 230 institutions of higher education are accredited by WASC.

A small step forward

Murray impasse moves slightly

The protracted wrangle between the Murray Elementary School District and its discontented teachers has moved one small step closer to resolution.

After the Certificated Employes' Council (CEC), which represents the teachers, declared an impasse two weeks ago and called for fact-finding, both sides have come up with their nominees for the three-man fact-finding committee.

Those two will get together and hopefully choose a third member agreeable to them both.

The district has selected Mike Taggart of Patterson and Taggart, a Southern California law firm that specializes in educational matters.

In fact, one of the items that the committee will be considering — the impasse policy itself — was drawn up from a policy written by William Patterson.

The teachers have chosen Gerald Kilbert of the California Teachers' Association (CTA) as their representative. Kilbert is new to the area and thus to the problems in Murray.

He will quickly learn, however, about the salary, supply and impasse procedure difficulties that have stretched negotiations out over six months.

At present, the teachers are asking an 8½ per cent increase, which includes ½ per cent increase in instructional supply budgets.

The last district offer was 6 per cent with a $2 per student jump in the instructional supply budgets, or about ¼ per cent.

The teachers' last official counterproposal called for a 6 per cent jump with a ½ per cent raise in supply budgets, but since the passage of a state bill that increases school district allotments, the teachers are asking for more.

"With the impasse, we moved back up to 8½ per cent" said Joyce Spreyer, president of the Murray Teachers' Association "Our real position is that all the money should go to teachers and supplies. The district wants to put the extra money in the bank."

Spreyer said "The other figure — the 6 per cent — was an effort on our part to compromise."

However, she was hopeful about the outcome of the fact-finding committee. "People of good will on both sides can say 'If this is the way the facts really are, maybe we should change our position'" Spreyer stated.

However, just getting the machinery of the committee going could be difficult, since one of the problems that the committee must find facts on is the impasse and fact-finding procedure.

The district policy calls for a dean of a local school of education to choose a third member of the committee if the two selections can't agree, a policy the teachers are opposed to.

The CEC has also asked that the fact-finding committee's report be made at a public meeting, while the district is adamant that the report be given to the board in private and then to the CEC in private.

The committee has 30 days after the third member is chosen in which to file its report. As far as the CEC and the district know, no meeting has taken place between Kilbert and Taggart at this time.

'Never go home again?'

Pleasanton grads return to teach

PLEASANTON — Back in the not-so-distant halcyon days of western world literate Thomas Wolfe wrote something to the affect that one could never return home again.

He undoubtedly didn't have small communities and the indomitable will of young educators in mind when he penned those immortal words.

At least not three young women who grew up here, gained their early education and then returned to teach.

And all three by some coincidence are teaching at the same school, Fairlands in the Pleasanton Elementary School District.

Joining Sherri Allison, the "veteran" of the trio with 3½ year teaching experience, are Tessie Halog and Mary Hart.

A graduate of the University of California at Santa Barbara with teaching credential studies at San Jose State, Sherri is the daughter of Patricia Allison, a teacher at Alisal.

The field of education and teaching is a hallowed tradition in the Allison family. Beside Sherri and her mother, her great aunt and grandmother both taught, the latter for 30 years. Her great aunt was a missionary in China.

Mrs. Allison is starting her eleventh year in teaching.

Sherri attended Pleasanton Elementary and graduated from Amador Valley High before going on to UCSB.

Tessie, a third grade teacher with 28 students, is beginning her second year in the teaching profession.

While a student in the fifth grade at Valley View, Tessie's teacher was Gene Vargas, now principal at Fairlands. She continued her education locally at Pleasanton Elementary and Amador and went on to Cal State Hayward for her teaching credential.

Last year she taught a second-third grade combo class in Castro Valley and then "came home" to Pleasanton teach summer school.

Tessie adds that a prime reason for returning is "I enjoy the kids in the community.

Mary Hart is in her very first year of teaching.

Daughter of the late and reverend Tom Hart, a principal and assistant superintendent in Pleasnton for many years, Mary has 30 students in a first grade class.

Like so many other aspiring teachers, Mary applied to many, many school districts — 25 in her case— all in the greater East Bay Area. Of the 25 she contacted, only Pleasanton followed through.

A graduate of Cal State Chico, she attended school at Our Lady of Grace in Castro Valley for seven years, finished her elementary education at Pleasanton and her prep work at Amador Valley High.

None of the three were aware of each other's background when they initially compared notes at Fairlands earlier this month.

All took slightly differing routes to Fairlands but it's likely they'll agree you can return home again.

"Favorite curmudgeon" tells all

Times managing editor denies covering crucifixion

PLEASANTON — It simply is not true that Walt Hecox, senior valley journalist and Thursday's guest speaker at the San Ramon — Amador Valley Exchange Club luncheon, covered the crucifixion.

He was out getting an exclusive interview with Bar Abbas. Probably hiding him in a secluded hotel so the Jerusalem Journal couldn't get the story.

"Our favorite curmudgeon," as club vice president and Tri-Valley Fictional Review editor Barry Schrader introduced him, is, however, the valley's "most widely read journalist."

As such he spent some 30 minutes regaling club members on the exploits of newspapering, a business he claims he's "never taken seriously."

It started, he alleges, on March 23, 1938, when he sat down at his first desk in the city room of the Gridley Evening Globe — The stove pipe over his head burst, drenching him in ashes. He knew he'd found a home

In those 37 years he slipped — sorry, boss — to the old San Jose Mercury, the Sacramento Bee and McClatchy newspapers, the San Francisco Call Bulletin and another dozen papers, finally finding his pinnacle, and Pulitzer nomination, with the Pleasanton/Valley Times.

In the 40's, of course, was his stint with the U S. Marines. Stories his staff rarely hears. Thare's a distant sadness in his eyes when something stirs the memory. Silence. Then a hearty chuckle and recollections of his victories as heavyweight boxing champion of the 21st Marine Regiment.

The old Call-Bulletin took him in after the war in the days of "scoop journalism" when you came back with THE picture of the beautiful blonde victim before her lover put five bullets in her back, or you came back without a job.

If you were young and just married in apartment scarce San Francisco, you ran downstairs to put a deposit on the deceased's flat. But the cop beat you to it and it was back to hoping and hustling.

When by hook and by crook you found where police were hiding the suspect's wife you and the photographer sent the hotel detective on a roller coaster ride up and down the stairs until you ditched him.

Then for three days you hid the wife in another hotel and pulled one exclusive after another from her, while the Examiner, Chronicle and News called you foul, four-letter words culled from the imaginations of newsrooms full of experts on foul, four-letter words.

"HE DID IT!"

It was bound to happen. After chasing all those cops and sometimes not so delicately stepping over bodies you get fingered.

"What do you mean, 'Describe the suspect?'," the landlady asked. "It's that big guy standing over there with the cop. The one with the notebook and pencil."

But you were playing chess with the cops in the squadroom, so your alibi is — how would Bogart say it? — "airtight."

"Hecox," the burly cop barked "If you walk out of here with that picture I'll arrest you for burglary!"

The stories are endless, an unimpeachable fact with which his staff wholeheartedly agrees: Sally Stanford feigning anger to keep a fellow reporter and not always favorite customer from sleeping it off on her couch. Ed Sullivan encouraging the fledgling novelist to keep it up, to chase every detective story in the state because "you've got the talent."

Novels, short stories, magazine editorships. That plethora of experiences that makes him the valley's "most widely read journalist."

If you know a kid who wants to write, who wants to be a journalist, don't encourage him, he said. The "youngster" has to work it out himself, he's "got to feel a natural rhythm in what he writes.

"The only things you get out of this business are the people you meet and the experiences you have."

Now, if I can only slip the opening iines about the crucifixion past his well experienced eyes, this fledging youngster won't spend the next weeks sitting on his post toasties sipping wheat squeezings waiting for the unemployment check.

Good grief! It's contagious.

Thank God.

Austrian etcher

Artist reception Sunday

LIVERMORE — The public is invited to meet Austrian color etcher Josef Eidenberger during a champagne and gallery reception Sunday afternoon at Proctor's, 2196 First St.

Eidenberger, 75, is world renown for his softly colored etchings accomplished through the complicated process of copper plate engraving.

He will be at Proctor's from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Galas, Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Hubbard and Dr. Paul A. Eilser, the counsul of Austria.

Also featured Sunday will be more than 100 of Eidenberger's etchings, including his Williamsburg, Va. scenes — a series he was commissioned to create last year in commemoration of the United States Bicentennial celebration.

His work will be displayed at Proctor's for two weeks following Sunday's reception

Eidenberger began his career as a landscape painter and later used copper engraving and then etching as his medium. It was his love of color that led him to the complicated process of color etching.

That method is described in a pamphlet displaying his Williamsburg series:

"Color etching requires the use of three or four color plates and one black plate. During the printing, the platelines must fit perfectly on top of each other to leave a clear impression.

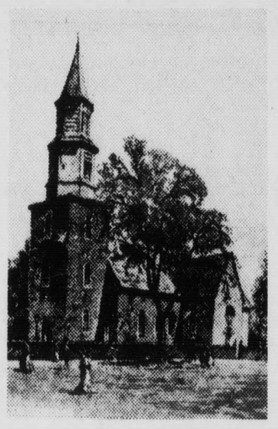
"To make one print, the plates are all inked by hand, as only the human hand has the necessary feeling to do this work.

"It can take two hours or more to ink one plate, and in some cases, a full day to prepare the plates for one print."

Proctor's, which began as a custom framing shop in 1968, also went into the business of acquiring original etchings.

The store's agent in Germany acquired original etchings by Luigi Kasimir— a contemporary who has greatly influenced Eidenberger — and more recently purchased the work of Eidenberger, explained Proctor.

Eidenberger's etchings can be found in countless galleries and print collections throughout the world — as well as Proctor's.



The Bruton Parish Church is part of Eidenberger's Williamsburg series which will be featured at Proctor's for two weeks, starting with a champagne and gallery reception for the artist Sunday.

Harvest Park needs parents

PLEASANTON— Parent involvement is needed in three areas at Harvest Park School, principal Dale Hudson announced earlier this week via a newsletter to parents

The first parent advisory committee meeting will be held in the library at 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 15 and all interested Harvest Park parents are welcome. This is an opportunity for them to become involved in the curriculum and operational planning of their school.

The Harvest Park library needs parent volunteers to help out 45 minutes or an hour per week. If you can spare some time for the library, please call Judy Bryer, librarian, at 846-6698.

In another area, during September and October volunteers are needed to help administer hearing and vision tests. East Avenue teachers protest

LIVERMORE — There won't be any school clubs at East Avenue School for awhile.

Nor will "back-to-school night" take place. East Avenue teachers are postponing the night and suspending all voluntary services such as school clubs and curriculum committees until the school board and teachers have settled this year's negotiations.

Talks between the school board and the Livermore Education Association (which represents about two-thirds of the district's teachers) have been dragging on well past the traditional May settlement season. Usually teachers leave for the summer knowing what their new salaries will be.

Teachers at East Avenue Intermediate School (where LEA president Allen Schell teaches music) also have expressed dissatisfaction with the district's proposed length of school day policy, which they say would make the junior high day longer than needed and would restrict the program.

Although tentative agreement has been reached on some points in negotiation items, teachers are hung up over the board's 6 per cent salary offer. They originally asked for a 20 per cent raise and are now requesting 12 per cent.They are also resentful that the school board wants to lengthen their work day and add dys to their work year.

Redevelopment — back to basics

Whatever else they might be trying to tell us in their recent responses to Pleasanton's first redevelopment venture, it is clear that that those most directly concerned a have little confidence in the plan put forward by the city staff.

The question now is if the community has confidence in the city's ability to prepare, and sell, any such program, of whatever dimensions.

Redevelopment is little more than a fiscal gimmick, a permitted route by which local government might generate some quick cash, ostensibly to solve problems in an area of urgent need. We are all aware of the many such proposals (most of them for the same unhappy area) that have been put forward in San Francisco. The response there has been so poor that not one of those redevelopment ventures has been truly successful. The critics there say it is "because we have no faith in the people who put this thing together."

Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce said just as much when they voted — after a series of confused and confusing moves — not to support the city staff's plan, but then to offer one of the chamber's own authorship. That may be a case of jumping from the frying pan clear into the fire, but only time will tell.

It is not the chamber's position, or its expertise as redevelopers, that is in question here. What must concern the total populace is that its government saw sufficent urgency in some $26 million worth of municipal projects to pull them all together in one big, ambitious, uncertain package. Now that plan has been rejected, even by those who are supposed to benefit most, and first, from its design.

The community must now ask itself some soul-searching questions. "Is the century-old Central Business District worth saving?" "Can redevelopment be made to work?" "Does pleasanton have the right to capture ALL of the taxes to be generated by that promised Stoneridge Regional Center?"

We believe the answer to all of those questions is a firm "Yes!" It always was. Somehow the authors and the sellers of that first redevelopment venture were never able to pull together the right package, with the right kind of pitch.

What is needed now is a new plan, and a new team. It remains to be seen if the city has that kind of verve, and that kind of courage.

FOCUS/State of the Nation

Sara Jane's aim

A few hundred words about Sara Jane Moore's assassination attempt on the President's life and Bicentennial essays .

Much has been written about Miss Moore as well as Lynette Fromme and their pointing and shooting at President Ford. Quite possibly the notoriety of the first spurred the second.

The incidents bring up once again the seeming easy access to firearms and the apparent disregard for the consequences of attempting an unlawful act.

It also proves that if some unbalanced mind decides that shooting at a community or national leader is worthwhile, they'll find a way to do it.

These acts of assassination, stemming from the time of the Kennedys to Martin Luther King, Gov. George Wallace and now President Ford, along with the SLA business, the bombings and ever-rising incidence of violent crimes against individuals, tend to reflect the state of society.

We live in an era where there is considerable disregard for our institutions and those in roles of leadership.

It is borne out by dwindling voter turnout figures. A sizable percentage of the population is saying "I don't care about the system," or "It doesn't work for me."

The Cinques, Patty Hearsts, Sara Jane Moores and Remiro-Littles are expressing their disregard more directly and violently.

Ironic that all these events should happen on the eve of this Nation's 200th birthday.

All of the above-mentioned deviates have one other thing in common.

They all handled firearms at one time or another, whether in the commission or attempt of an unlawful act.

A release from the state Bureau of Investigation states there were 234,000 handguns sold in California last year, and officials add those were only the transactions that were reported.

"For practical purposes" says Elroy Elster of the state bureau, "many transfers go on without our knowledge." Registration of handgun ownership is not required in California.

California's handgun laws date back to World War I and prevent any felons, persons under 21 and those judged dangerous by reason of mental history from possessing weapons, Elster said recently.

A .38-caliber revolver allegedly was seized from Sara Moore after a shot was fired during President Ford's visit in San Francisco Monday. A .45-caliber automatic pistol allegedly was taken from Lynette Fromme during Ford's Sept. 5 visit at Sacramento.

It would be an understatement to say that very little sound judgement went into these acts ... as to the result of the act or the consequences facing the perpetrator.

As stated in these columns before, a sizable number but still a small minority of the populace in these 50 states have taken the freedoms guaranteed by a Democracy, shaped it into a weapon and used it to bludgeon any and all those they disagree with.

In countries that are not quite as democratic, they could face being shot on the spot or imprisoned with little or no recourse.

So we approach the birthday party with a body politic that needs some binding.

We put the candles on the cake with something less than united resolve or purpose.

Thank God for the children.

And thank goodness for all those who would sit down and write about the good points of this country or stand up and be counted without fear or trepidation of being hooted down as a "square."

Nearby on our desk is a short essay by a valley junior high student writing on "What The Bicentennial Means to Me."

Though brief, it is an excellent composition.

Hopefully, in the weeks to come, more students from primary through high school will follow Vicki Johnson's lead, sit down and express their thoughts on our nation and the Bicentennial in particular.

It's one heck of a subject and worthy of a few hundred words about now.

The one item in the Patricia Hearst saga that the news media have somehow failed to report: Patty is now entitled to draw unemployment insurance!

I came upon this startling bit of information while reading the 145th retake of that day's AP wire flow on "Hearst — k309." No. 145 advised me that Patricia Campbell Hearst has removed her listing as "urban gurerilla" in the Redwood City jail records. In its place she has inserted those two wonderful words — "not employed."

They say the change was made at the suggestion of one of Patty's five attorneys. I am informed, however, that it was her father who put Patty up to it. Not that I blame him. After all, the pay scale for urban guerrillas can't be all that good, these days. Besides which, Patty is off the SLA payroll anyhow.

That 30 or 40 bucks a week from the unemployment fund will look mighty good, to a poppa who is faced with paying for those five attorneys, posting that bail, etc.

The girls in our office have been discussing the Hearst affair, as you might imagine. It's our classified department, and classified girls get into the damndest subjects, I can assure you.

"This is a fine thing to be happening to us during International Women's Year," says the girl at station II.

"First Indira, then those two gals who try to shoot up the president, and now Patty back on the front pages," agrees our gal at station III. "What is the male populace going to think now about the liberated woman?"

"I can tell you one thing for sure," says our Ms. at station I, "they are going to think we are terribly poor shots."

Which is, I suppose, an in-depth treatise the news media won't get around to until they have first exhausted all else on the L'affaire Hearst. Not to mention L'affaire Sneaky, or L'affaire Sara Jane. They are piling up on us mighty fast, folks. It's all a newsperson can do to simply let the news wires roll on, and try to think up a catchy new lead for the latest Ms. mayhem.

I wonder how Betty Ford feels right now about turning her daughter loose on the world. It's one thing to be a free thinker on sex, and stuff. It's something else when the kid is hell bent for joining Our Gang, letting Fatty Arbuckle lead them down the political primrose path, and then cutting 'em loose with a gun that won't even fire straight, if at all.

It gives all us parents reason to pause. "I didn't raise my boy to be a soldier," was the parental lament from wars past. Now there's a new cry for the crib. "I don't want my daughter to leave home until she knows how to keep her powder dry." And which eye to close, when she's squinting down the barrel.

If the gals are going to become the new revolutionaries of the 20th century, then somebody had best start giving them lessons on the care and handling of firearms. Their record thus far on that score is well below average.

All of the news is not about Patty and the girls, I should note. There is for example this startling bit of information which escaped the front pages in deference to livelier stuff. "Approximately 10,000 people suffer spinal cord injuries each year in the United States." That comes from Dr. Glenn G. Reynolds, M.D., director of the California Model Regional Spinal Injury Care System.

Only those of us who have felt something back there go "pop!" when we reach down for the stick of wood, or whatever, can appreciate the worth of Dr. Reynolds' findings. It doesn't make my aching spine feel any better, but it is comforting to realize that there are another 9,999 of you out there. Ouching along together. Letting the wife pick up the wood, from henceforth.

Another news piece that I am certain would have caught your attention, if it hadn't been for Patty and Sneaky and Sara Jane, is this one liner from the agenda of the Charter Review Commission of Alameda County.

In that commission's listings of major areas of concern and study, there is included this entry: "THE WHEEL — the commission members questioned the origin and status of the wheel, and asked the coordinator to report on this at the next meeting."

Now it is most reassuring, during these troubled times, to find that there is at least one of our governmental bodies sticking to basics. And what could be more basic, I ask you, than a study of the wheel, where it came from, and where it might be going?

I promise to stay close to this story, and share the findings with you just as soon as they are revealed. There isn't one parent right now who wouldn't like to know where it all began, and where it might end. There is something of Patty Hearst in every family, when you get right down to it.

For adults who can't read

A simple tale about duck hunting is today's reading lesson for Raul Winder, a native of Peru, being tutored by Sally Dilgard. (Times photo)

Imagine not being able to drive — just because you can't read the words on the driver's license test.

Hundreds of Valley adults are in that predicament right now, most of them because they don't know enough English to pass the test although they already know how to drive.

Nor can they read a label, follow a sign, order from a menu.

The recently arrived Vietnamese families, as well as newcomers from Peru, India, Fiji, Guatemala, Thailand and other far corners of the world, are discovering a solution: the Laubach Literacy Centers of Livermore and Dublin.

"This is where the people come before they go to evening school," says Sally Dilgard, a rosy-cheeked and chatty woman who has found enough time in the past four years to be teacher, trainer, supply clerk, organizer and coordinator for the growing centers.

The Laubach method, used worldwide, is based on the simple principle of memory association. To introduce the letters of the alphabet, each letter is superimposed on an object which is shaped like that letter For example, the small "g" is superimposed on a sketch of a girl's profile, her long ponytail curving over her shoulder to form the lower loop of the letter, her head forming the circle.

The word "girl" is written next to the picture.

"It's instant success," Mrs. Dilgard explains. "The student learns to associate the letter, the picture, the sound and the written word."

Repetition and a simple format are basic to Laubach . So is the motto. "Each one, teach one" — which means, one tutor to a student. Tutors are 16 years of age and older. Frequently, teen-aged tutors are matched up with students of their own age, and a lasting friendship is the extra bonus both receive.

The Laubach method had its start in the Valley five years ago, when Maria Hopkins of Livermore gathered a small group of volunteers to help fight illiteracy.

She now runs the Livermore Life Center headquartered in Asbury United Methodist Church. Mrs. Dilgard, who had been traiend by Mrs. Hopkins, Harper, runs the Living English Center in Our Savior's Lutheran Church, Livermore, and Valley Christian Center, Dublin. Jerry Harper is assistant coordinator of those two centers.

The growing program has no income, outside of donations from churches and private individuals. The donations help pay for books and supplies for students who can't afford to buy their own. Even the teachers must buy their own set of manuals at a cost of $9.

"We send tutors wherever they're needed," Mrs. Dilgard reports. That may, in the future, include Santa Rita Prison and the California Youth Authority jail nearby.

"The majority of those in prison are functional illiterates." observes Mrs. Dilgard, her voice betraying horror at the helplessness of someone who is not equipped to get along in a society that demands eig h-grade reading skill in order to fill out a jo application, read a want ad, pick up a magazine .

She has also contacted the schools about possible cooperation between the Laubach project and their programs.

Meanwhile, the burgeoning centers boast 25 tutors working with 30 students in Livermore, and another 20 tutors helping 25 residents of Dublin, San Ramon and Pleasanton.

There's a long waiting of students in need of instruction — of all ages and nationalities. A new training class will be starting soon and Mrs. Dilgard is hoping to attract 30 new volunteers to help with Vietnamese, Mexican and other newly arrived foreigners. Not to mention the American-born adults who somehow never learned to read and who are now turning to the Laubach center for a second chance.

There will be 10 hours of classes, spread over a two-week period, and then volunteers will be ready to start working with a student, promises the coordinator. Tutoring will demand about three hours a week, either in the morning or evening.

Anyone who doesn't want to tutor (you don't need any teaching or language skills) may volunteer for other badly needed services. The center can use drivers to pick up students and teachers; babysitters to watch students' children during classes; and helpers to collect pictures and assemble visual aids.

Another thing that's always needed is donations, which may be sent to the Valley Christian Center School of Literacy, 7400 San Ramon Road, Dublin.

Prospective volunteers or students may contact Mrs. Dilgard at 828-4850 to sign up.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Looking across the room I see Bill Hayden, a man who can't make up his mind whether he is a theatrical critic, business editor, advertising account executive, cartoonist or motion picture producer, dressed in a bright paisley shirt and looking more like Hollywood every day.

I am very polite to our ad men. Call them all account executives and salute when they pass.

The ad men are the only fellows in the joint other than this old man and John Edmands who wear neckties.

Looking at Bill reminded me of another Hayden who was characterized on Channel 9 Sunday during a two hour plus special on the trial of the Chicago Seven.

Normally I do not watch Channel 9. The reason is they keep trying to hit me up for money.

Near as I can tell Channel 9, reportedly an educational station, is taking overt cracks at almost everything I hold dear.

Sometimes they come through with a good program and they do produce showings of congressional hearings I sometimes find interesting.

Sunday they outdid themselves.

The dramatization of the Chicago Seven trial was well done and excellent entertainment. It was also frightening. The so-called public education network did its best to canonize seven of the most evil men ever to walk over the sidewalks, fields and highways of these United States.

Between segments of the show Channel Nine came through with long intervals of intermission during which a laddie who looked like he had not changed clothes on the way from the open hearth furnace at the steel mill to the station, accused me of not doing my part.

What he wanted was for me to pony up some money for good old Channel 9, a station which has earned my considerable disapproval over the years.

I am an appreciative fellow. I smoke Benson and Hedges cigarettes because I like their advertisements. Drink Black Velvet wheat squeezings because it has earned the considerable distinction of being named by the National Organization for Women the most objectionable and chauvinistic product to be advertised on the national market.

Maybe one of these days the laddie at Channel 9 will put on a freshly pressed suit, comb his hair and wear a necktie.

Then I will make a concession. For the programs I like I will pay at the rate I think them worth, starting at 50 cents and working up to a top of $2.00.

Those I do not like I will quickly switch off ... which is what I do most of the time with Channel 9.

Programs which I think are designed to deliberately destroy or change a standard of living and way of life I hold dear will get a negative reaction.

I will send a bill for damages to Channel 9.

Believe me, that bill could become sizeable. Newsroom shows a couple of times a night, I believe. The laddie in the wrinkled shirt and no necktie tells me it is different while he hits me up for a dime.

Thank God it is different. Objective reporting would be as dead as Harriet Beecher Stowe if all the news media took the liberties with reporting I detect on Channel 9's Newsroom.

When Patricia Hearst was captured and Federal Bureau of Investigation Special Agent Charlie Bates submitted to an interview by the Newsroom staff he was asked, among other things, why the bureau had spent so much time and money on the capture of Patricia Hearst and the Harris' when their were hundreds of bank robbers, kidnappers and murderers running loose around the country.

The inference was that the others were real crooks while Bill and Emily Harris and Patricia were not really doing anything bad.

Yet, over a 17-month period, the Harris family and Patricia managed to make the suspect list on enough violent activities, including bank robbery and murder, to make John Dillinger at his peak look like Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Which is about what I expect from the Channel 9 newsroom.

Sunday's program, which was excellent in its dramatic quality, was slanted beyond any doubt in this old man's mind, something I am accustomed to while watching Channel 9.

The gnawing worry which grew as the program progressed was that one of those young men who raised so much hell in Chicago in 1968, who promoted a campaign to disrupt and if possible to destroy the national Democratic Convention, is currently running for the United States Senate.

I refer, of course, to Tom Hayden, the man who is starting early in a campaign to unseat California Senator John Tunney.

Hayden has been picking up a few backers along the way including at least one unit of the League of Women Voters.

I will overlook the fact that it is the league's avowed purpose to educate and inform and not to take political stands for the moment.

My real interest is in Hayden and what he stands for.

He must have known seven years ago that in bringing some 15,000 dissident young people to Chicago he and his comrades were bound to foment some sort of eventual violence. Yet he went right ahead, convinced, I assume, that the means justify the end.

He and his comrades made a mockery of Judge Julius Hoffmann's court and in so doing, no matter what you think of the judge, mocked and derided the entire judicial system of this country.

He and his pals behaved like rowdies, ignored the rules of civilized behavior and all, at one time or another, advocated some kind of revolution in these United States, a nation I love and respect.

Now Hayden wants to become a United States Senator And I have a lot of questions to ask him.

All of which are not really necessary. I wouldn't want a man like Hayden working for my garbage company and will do my best to see that he is not elected.

Maybe he has changed, you say? But how do you and I know, my friends, he will not change back to what he was and may well still be?

For Friday, Sept. 26, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your promises today will lack your usual sincerity. Remember: You'll hurt someone more by reneging on a pledge than if you didn't make it at all.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You won't have your head together in business today. Because of your lack of awareness, something of value will be lost.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's not like you to carry that little green eyed monster on your shoulder. But he'll be perched there when someone you're fond of casts her eyes elsewhere.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be very disappointed if you expect things to fall in your lap effortlessly. You get nothing for nothing today.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Usually you're very straightforward in conversations with pals. Today, you're apt to try to camouflage meanings.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Self-doubts could sidetrack some influences that would prove very favorable to your career. Have faith in your ability today.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) You're going to make some unfortunate alterations in plans today, because you place more credence in the ideas of others than they deserve.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) Avoid trying to pull another's chestnuts out of the fire today. You'll find it costly and unrewarding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) It's not wise to expect too much of others today. Even those exceptionally fond of you can only perform within certain limitations.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) Steer clear today of one who has reason to be jealous of your achievements. This person is inclined to throw stumbling blocks in your path.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) If you want to accomplish today what you set out to, don't be timid. You must be bold and forthright, but not reckless.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Keep confidential matters within the family today. Loose talk will be played back and it will be distorted in the transmission.

Sept. 26, 1975

You will make some major changes in your lifestyle this coming year. They'll be well thought through. Someone now distant from you will have a major hand in them.

On sports

Pride of the Yankees

Mike Zampa

The Pan American Games are another well-meaning showcase for international brotherhood through athletics, but like similar endeavors, they serve to point out that the United States is surrounded by underdeveloped countries when it comes to sport.

Oh you may find a Cuban sprinter or a Mexican swimmer with the gall to challenge America's Goliaths. But practically speaking, U.S. athletes find the Pan Am Games a better opportunity for sharpening photographic skills than a test of competitive zeal.

The American gymnasts realize this as their training continues at University of Nevada at Reno.

"The Canadians and Cubans are supposed to be pretty good," says team member Diane Dunbar of Pleasanton. "But most of the countries just aren't up to our level. We've got a Puerto Rican girl training with us because she's the only one from their country competing, and she's only been in gymnastics six weeks. That gives you an idea of what the competition will be like."

The trip to Mexico City for this year's Pan Am Games will be almost a vacation junket, says Diane, a junior at Foothill High School. Teams will be allowed but three hours for practice daily. That's barely enough time to limber up for a top level gymnast.

The rest of the time Diane and her teammates will tour Mexico City, or perhaps, catch some of the other competition at The Games.

Once gymnastics get underway Oct. 18, however, the holiday is over.

"We'll still be representing our country," Diane says, "and we still have to go down to do the best we can. Winning would be good for the head. It would be a big ego boost I guess."

As much as victory would ease her mind, it might do more to soothe the back pain Diane is enduring. For the past few months she has suffered with an irritated disc that tortures all the muscles in the vicinity of her lower back.

She has visited orthopedic specialists who say the injury won't worsen through competition. It will continue to hurt, though, they've warned her.

"I just try to be tough," Diane says. "I've always been able to take pain pretty much. I still work out every day, and I just take a lot of aspirin. There's another girl on the team, Colleen Casey, with the same problem, and she's been taking these muscle relaxants. I might start trying that.

"I was vaulting the other day and all of the sudden I got these muscle spasms in my back," Diane recalls "I couldn't even sit up or lay down without using my hands, then Colleen gave me one of those pills and it was O.K. But yesterday we went shopping and it was even hurting then."

Diane's medical history is legend among gymnasts. She has ascended to the top handful of competitors in the nation despite a case book full of cracked bones and swollen joints. It took special dispensation to get her into the Pan Am trials when an elbow injury forced her out of a prior meet. At her last international competition, The World Games, Diane competed on a badly puffed ankle.

"I don't know if it's going to get better," she says. "But I know I'll stay in it until after the Olympics. After that, it depends on the back."

Injured or not, Diane is a strong gold medal prospect at Mexico City. First, let's assume that an American will win. Also consider that Diane finished second in the trials, less than one full point behind winner Ann Carr.

At one time or another, Diane has defeated all of her teammates, Carr, Casey, Roxanne Pierce, Debbie Wilcox and Kathy Howard.

If you accept her insistence that the back injury won't hinder performance, Dunbar looms as the likely choice.

"I haven't watched anybody else here because I've been too busy getting ready myself," she says. "But I guess I've got as good a chance as any."

If that sounds ominous for her opponents, there is still a comforting word coming out of Reno this week. The furor that disrupted women's gymnastics for the past 18 months is dying down.

Political infighting, which marred America's performance at the World Games has been shelved.

U.S. coach Dale Flancis allows each team member to be accompanied by her personal coach so that none of the gymnasts are ignored, or improperly treated.

"It's been going good," Diane says. "We're training just like we would at home."

Diane and the rest of the gymnasts leave next week for Dallas, where they'll be outfitted for the Pan Am Games, and given orientation. They'll be housed in a motel with all 500 U.S. athletes, an aspect of the trip Diane is most anxious to experience.

Remember that men will also compete in Mexico Gymnastics competition will be held Oct. 18-21, but there is no respite for Diane. There never is.

Before winter she may be forced to compete in a regional meet to re-establish her "elite" standing in the United States. That may have been forfeited when she missed the national championships because of the elbow.

Once that nuisance task is behind her, Diane will travel to Oregon, where she will work on a new routine. The old one is two-years old, and it's growing whiskers.

The replacement will be similar to her present number, zesty and bouncy, disdaining the flowing ballet-like style of some gymnasts. "It'll have a lot of cute little things because I'm no ballerina," Diane says.

Depleted Dons still on top

After losing eight of last season's top ten players to graduation, the Amador Valley High tennis team looked like a bad bet for the EBAL title this season.

But, after the Dons slashed through their first six dual meets of the year undefeated, AV has become almost a favorite for a second consecutive EBAL title.

Yesterday afternoon in Danville the Dons disposed of its chief rival, San Ramon, 6-1, in the first of two meetings of the clubs.

The only Wolf win came in fifth singles, where Steve Holmes topped Doug Brannan, 6-3, 6-1.

Holmes was San Ramon's number one player last year but, since he just came out for the team this week, Wolf coach Chuck Cornell placed him at the bottom of the ladder, partially accounting for his easy win over Brannan.

Amador coach Don Anger was relieved that Holmes was not placed higher in the SR line-up.

"Had Holmes played first singles, it might have changed things around quite a bit, since they would have had better players in the lower brackets," he said.

Anger also pointed to superior conditioning as a prime factor in the AV win.

"This was particularly evident in Ron Lapp's match (a 5-7, 7-6, 6-4 struggle over Rick Reed)," he revealed, "Ron hit a beautiful cross-court shot to win the tie-breaker in the second set.

"Our doubles teams also did an excellent job," Anger concluded.

Gary Barnett and David Norton beat Jim Hogeboom and Eric Henze, 6-3. 7-5 while the Dons second doubles team, Dean Copeman and Steve Giannini swept past Peter Lamson and Charlie McKee, 6-2, 6-4.

Amador's top singles player, Dave Finn easily got past Brad Blake, 6-3, 6-2.

Monte Vista, meanwhile, shut out visiting Dublin 7-0, in a match originally slated for the Gael courts. A resurfacing job has forced Dublin off its home playing surface for the remainder of the season.

Dublin was also playing without its normal one and two singles players, suspended late last week by coach Joe Banuat. "They apparently decided not to go to a JV match after I told them to," he said, "So they'll have to sit out awhile.

With Dublin using a makeshift line-up, Monte Vista followed suit but still dominated play.

Rick Overstreet, normally a doubles player, beat Mike Lacey , 7-5, 6-1 to open things and it never got any closer.

Rob Overstreet, Mike Niebur, Van Shalin and Roger Crawford also recorded singles wins for the Mustangs.

Crawford, severely crippled at birth, made the most of his first league singles opportunity with a hard fought 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 win over Dublin doubles player John Danskin.

Granada saddles MV 17-45, in EBAL cc

Granada High came away with an impressive 17-45 victory over Monte Vista in an EBAL dual cross-country meet on the Mustangs three-mile course yesterday afternoon in Danville.

Scott Kusko of the Matadors took the varsity race in 17:46, with teammates Jeff Cowling (17:53) and Dan Lyons (18:15) fairly close behind.

Dave Lebeque was the Mustang's first finisher, crossing the line after 18:24.

Monte Vista, in turn, won a two-mile combined junior varsity and frosh-soph race, 21-35. Scott Foster of Monte Vista won the race in 12:34, beating fellow 'Stang Jay Fumia by an even ten seconds. Bob Hicks of Granada was third in 12:45.

There were not enough girl competitors to warrant a separate race, so they ran with the JV/f-s group. The Mats' Kathy Lyons was the first distaffer across the finish line in 14:12.

Amador Valley runners won all three divisions of their meet with California, run in Pleasanton.

Don frosh-soph runners took four of the first five positions in tallying a 16-46 victory, the junior varsity outclassed the Grizzlies, 20-36, and the Amador girls team had a low score of 19 to defeat their Cal counterparts.

Mario DaSilva led the frosh-soph two-mile run with a time of 10:28, followed by Greg Novacek (11:03) and Curtis Smith (11:06). Bob Brasesco of California was fifth.

Wendy Behrbaum of AV established a new course record, running the 1.5 mile distance in 8:38 as the Dons outdistanced the visitors.

Kurt Millar was the JV winner, touring the two-mile course in 11:44. The Foothill-San Ramon match-up was riddled with forfeits.

The Falcons gave up the varsity and JV races without a fight while SR defaulted the girls chase.

In the one scoring race, the San Ramon frosh-soph tagged Foothill with a 17-44 loss. Nelson Shook won the race in 10:21, followed by other Wolves in the next three spots The Falcons Billy Driscoll managed fifth in 11:41.

A non-scoring varsity race was run, with SR taking the first five places. Tim Galvin won in 14:13.

Hudson single wins it

Gale Hudson singled home the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning as Allied Brokers spoiled a thrilling Fil-Am comeback, 8-7, in a Livermore Slow Pitch Softball playoff.

The losers rallied for three runs in the top of the seventh inning after two were out. That tied the score at 7-7.

But Allied's Ernie Long opened the bottom of the inning with a triple, and after Bob Grant walked, raced home on Hudson's base hit.

Hudson went 4-for-4, and had a single in Allied's four-run first inning. Long and Grant each collected two hits.

The losers received two hits each from Vic and Albert Tayo.

The Knights of Columbus, shut out for six innings, erupted for 11 runs in the top of the seventh inning to stun Fish Factory, 11-5.

Bob Berlo had two hits in the crucial rally, a single and a two-run triple. David Clay and Larry Owen also stroked run-scoring triples. Ken Dolan fetched two scores with a single.

Larry Royce was the team's leading hitter with a double and two singles.

The Factory scored three of its runs in the first inning, aided by RBI-singles from Kane and Anderson.

In another game, Hayward Auto Imports was awarded a protest victory over Cal-Canners, after the Canners scored a 13-6 decision on the field. Hayward charged that the Canners employed an illegal player. The protest was upheld.

Tidings of comfort for Livermore

Tailback Vince Farfan, the 5-8, 160 running back will make his first start of the season after hobbling on an injured ankle for three weeks.

For the Cowboys, who have scored just six points in two ball games, Vince's return will be welcome. They finally began to generate an attack in a 22-6 loss to Oakdale last week, but most of it centered around quarterback Rich Palmer.

Farfan, who played part-time last year, should serve to relieve the pressure from Palmer.

There will be no relief, however, for the Cowboy defense. Terra Linda is 2-0 in non-league games, and has displayed good balance in its offense, according to Livermore coach Ron Berg.

"They're a little stronger passing," Berg said, "but they've got a good tailback too."

He is senior Tom Murphy, the key to Terra Linda's rushing attack. Mike Kirby is the quarterback, and he has good receivers to work with.

It should be another stringent test for Livermore's defense, which has not played well in two losses this season. "We'll see if it improves this week," Berg said yesterday. "We've spent a lot of time on it in practice, and made a few changes. Not so much in personnel, but in some of the things we'll do."

The flu blight beset Livermore in practice this week, costing Berg his top lineman, Pete Howard for a Wednesday practice. He is expected back for tonight's game, however. The only casualty is reserve lineman Mark Tewes who suffered a broken hand and will be sidelined four weeks.

The Cowboys defeated Terra Linda on the road last year, thanks to Palmer's deft short-range passes. Rich has completed just nine of 34 Passes this season, but is throwing the ball well. At least five balls were dropped last week, and he has operated against defenses stacked against the pass.

Farfan's return should erase their prejudice. "We'll take whatever they'll give us," Berg said. "The offense has looked pretty sharp in practice. But we've got to play both ways, and that means a big improvement in defense."

San Ramon High, like Livermore, is in search of its first victory this evening when it hosts Kennedy High of Fremont.

The Wolves have been defeated by two rugged teams, Vintage and Berkeley, but may face their most offensive minded opponent to date.

Kennedy throttled San Leandro, 35-13 last week, running off 66 plays against the Pirates, and gaining 175 yards through the air in the second half.

Kennedy employs two quarterbacks, Steve Prause and Brent Garrett, who, according to coach Pete Michaelatos, are "both functioning well." They clicked on seven of 10 passes in the final two quarters against San Leandro.

Kennedy was bounced by Mt. Eden in its season opener, 33-0.

Dublin is at home this evening, hoping to rebound from last week's pasting by Mission San Jose. The Gaels will face Westmont High of Campbell.

Dublin's two leading rushers, Jon Batchelor and Jim Boulware, are among the leading ground gainers in the EBAL after two non-league games.

Foothill High is at Monte Vista this evening, in search of its first varsity touchdown, as well as an initial victory. The Falcons have scored just two points in two games.

In games tomorrow, California High is at Mesa Verde and Ceres will face Granada in Livermore at 1 p.m. Saturday night, Amador Valley will play Central Valley High at Redding.

The Dons are expected to have junior quarterback John Sevo back after missing a game-and-a-half with a jammed thumb. Randy Tallarico may get the starting call, however.

Three starters, linebacker Otto Ribary, defensive end Don Palmer, and running back Ron Worley, have all missed practice time this week because of flu. But they all should play.

All-league running back Mike Goodison is working out with the team once again, after a bout with mononucleosis. He is expected back for the opening of the EBAL campaign.

Slighted DVC tries upset

Golden Gate Conference coaches got together prior to the start of football season, and agreed that Chabot College and San Jose City College would contest each other for a championship.

They delegated Diablo Valley to the slag heap.

Tomorrow night in Pleasant Hill the Vikings get their chance to embarrass the experts. They face Chabot in the GGC opener at 7:30.

Right now the Vikings are embarrassed, coming in with an 0-2 record after losses to Modesto and Contra Costa. The latter was a zany 37-22 accounting last weekend, in which DVC suffered a blocked punt and a fumbled kickoff. Contra Costa translated both into touchdowns.

Chabot, on the other hand, is 2-0, and sporting a strong kicking game with punter Steve Grant. The rest of the team ain't bad either.

The Gladiators are averaging nearly 200 yards per game rushing, and about 150 passing though quarterback Don Moore has been subdued in the pre-season.

The defense, meanwhile, has yielded just six points. It lost linebacker Tony Lagorio to a damaged ankle against College of Sequoias last week, but he will probably play this evening.

If you place great emphasis on precedent, then Chabot will win its conference opener. The Gladiators hold a 10-2-1 series edge over the Vikings, and haven't lost since 1968, 22-14. Last year the clubs tied, 12-12.

DVC's Sam DeVito is the dean of conference coaches, beginning his 17th season in Pleasant Hill.

He has an excellent sophomore quarterback, Gary Graumann, who is second in the Bay Area this season among junior college passers. Graumann has completed 27 of 66 for 400 yards and two touchdowns. Wide receiver Wally Yuhre tops all pass catchers with 14 for 133 yards.

The runners are freshmen, Kris Hollmer and Mark Erickson of San Ramon High School.

Another San Ramon graduate, Ken Bailey, will open at defensive end.

The Vikings were fourth in the GGC last year after going 4-3-1 in conference games. Having lost All-American defensive back Anthony Green to the University of California, they may be susceptible to Chabot's passing offense.

Moore has not enjoyed a sensational night throwing the ball yet, but has instead tempered his passing to fit Chabot's ball-control attack.

He is a strong, experienced passer with good receivers in Al Mundey, Tom Ferguson, and backup Ron Foreman.

Sports in brief

The Gladiators finished their pre-season schedule with a 4-1-1 record.

In the 11-12 division, Kris Franklin posted an A time of 1:27.7 in winning the 100 breast.

Nancy Whelan finished first in the 50 free with a 32.5 time, sixth in the 100 free, 1:15.5, and eighth for the 50 breast, 44.6.

Pruner wins

Lorie Pruner won the Springtown Women's Golf championship this week with a two-round net score of 70, a shot ahead of runner-up Maybelle Woods.

The women played four nine-hole rounds at the Livermore course, and combined their two best totals for an 18-hole score.

In third place was Terry Burnsed with a 72.

Kay Fackler and Beulah Doe tied for fourth at 76.

Swimming for $$

Pleasanton Swim Club placed 120 members in the water this week for its fund-raising aquathon, and they received more than $8,000 in pledges to help defray the costs of winter pool use.

The youngsters all swam 200 laps at Pleasanton's Aquatic Center, a two-hour project for most.

CITY OF PLEASANTON
NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A NEGATIVE DECLARATION
PROJECT DESIGNATION: RZ-75-12
September 26, 1975
In accordance with the provisions set forth in Resolution No. 74-133 and as amended in Resolution No. 75-22 (Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures), rezoning application RZ-75-12 has been determined to require a negative declaration.
The project consists of rezoning two parcels of land south and southeast of the existing Shell Service Station on First Street and Vineyard Avenue (4332 First Street and an unnumbered parcel with no street frontage) from R-M (Multiple Residential) District to C-F (Commercial Freeway) District. The two parcels proposed to be rezoned comprise approximately 11,300 square feet.

Rezoning these parcels would allow the expansion of the existing C-F use of the parcel to the north (the Shell Service Station). First Street is a major thoroughfare, and the westerly side of the street is presently in commercial use as is the adjacent Shell Service Station. In this setting, the rezoning of this small area would not have significant environmental effects. It is the finding of the Director of Housing and Community Development that this rezoning would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.
For more information on this case, contact the Department of Housing and Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.
Unless any written appeals of thus case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date or publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, whichever is later, this decision will become effective.

WHEREAS, on the 14th day of July, 1975, the City Council of the City of Pleasanton, Alameda County, California, did pass its Resolution Directing the Director of Public Works to Make and file an Amended Assessment for Assessment District No. 1, Pleasanton Township County Water District, Alameda County, California, as levied by the Board of Directors of the Pleasanton Township County Water District, Alameda County, California, on the 25th day of April, 1963, and which was recorded in the office of the District Engineer of the Pleasanton Township County Water District on the 8th day of May, 1963, and also recorded with the County Surveyor of the County of Alameda, on the 8th day of May, 1963; and
WHEREAS, said Director of Public Works of the City of Pleasanton, Alameda County, California, has filed with the City Clerk of the City of Pleasanton an Amended Assessment Amending Assessment Nos. 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 10, 22, 23-B, 24, 25, 26, 27 and 28-1.
NOW, THEREFORE, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all persons interested in said original assessment, or in the lands affected thereby, or in the bond secured by the issuance thereof, that a hearing will be held on the 13th day of October, 1975, at the hour of 8:00 o'clock P.M. of said day at the regular meeting place of the City Council of the City of Pleasanton, located in the Justice Court Chambers, 30 W. Angela Street, Pleasanton, California, at which time all persons interested in said original assessment, or in the lands affected thereby, or in the bond secured by the issuance thereof, may make any objection to said Amended Assessment herein referred to.

PROJECT DESIGNATION: Z-75-134
September 26, 1975
In accordance with the provisions set forth in Resolution No. 74-133 and as amended in Resolution No. 75-22 (Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures). Zoning permit Z-75-134 has been determined to require a negative declaration.
The project consists of the construction of a 6,000 square foot building at the northwest corner of Hopyard Road and West Las Positas Boulevard within the Val Vista Center to be used for office and retail business use. Zoning for the site is C-N (Neighborhood Commercial) District.
Construction and use of this building for office-retail use within an existing shopping center site would not nave significant environmental effects. A small increase in traffic to the center would likely result. Existing parking facilities would be enlarged to accommodate the increased patronage. It is the finding of the Director of Housing and Community Development that this construction and use would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

MEET R. LANCE RUCKTESCHLER New owner of Pleasanton Shell Service, 1801 Santa Rita Road at Valley Avenue in Pleasanton. He is having a "get acquainted" open house on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 3-4-5. He hopes you will stop by. On those days, Lance will donate one cent per gallon on every gallon of gas sold to United Ballistic Boys Soccer League and the Pleasanton Girls Soccer Association. There will also be free drawings for 350 gallons of gas and 5 soccer balls.

IF YOU HAVEN'T VISITED Glanville's Fine Jewelry & Gifts in the Valley Plaza Shopping Center just off Santa Rita Road, you've missed one of the bright new spots in Pleasanton. Showcases and shelves sparkle with bright silver and crystal and the brilliance of rubys, emeralds, sapphires and diamonds. We're here, says owner Aric Glanville and store manager Jim Kuhn, so local shoppers can have a selection of quality goods without driving out of the area to find them. Aric was assistant manager for Granat Bros. in San Jose and Jim spent the last three years as manager of Granat Bros. in Oakland. Both men are happy for the opportunity of going into business for themselves in the Valley and they invite you to come in and get acquainted with what they consider the most beautiful store in this locality. When you want a special gift for that VIP in your life, think Glanville. You won't have to go farther.

IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE time goes so fast, but proof lies in the fact the Goodyear Tire Center in Livermore (1485 First Street) is having a first anniversary sale starting October 1. There will be eight great days of special tire values and other automotive goodies you won't be able to resist. John Sorensen is also offering a free toy blimp with any purchase of $39.95 or more. To coin a 'corny' it's been a good-year for Goodyear and this is one way of saying thanks to their many customers and friends. Check those specials.

Homes' preview in valley

Pleasant Meadows is hosting an early bird preview showing of single-family homes in Pleasanton that contain a complete set of interior and exterior features most desired by homebuyers, according to Ed Rocca, marketing and sales director for Standard Pacific of Northern California, the builders.

"Convenient appointments such as wall - to - wall carpeting, masonry fireplaces in spacious living rooms, formal dining rooms designed for entertaining, huge master bedroom suites, exciting garden-view kitchens with all-electric, time saving appliances, elegant bathrooms, acoustical ceilings, cedar shake roofs, and seeded front lawns are listed as standard items in the cost of every Pleasant Meadows home," noted Rocca.

Three floor plans are available in a variety of nine elevations. Prices for the family-sized three bedroom, two or two and one-half bath residences range from $43,500 to $59,990. The community is located on Hansen Drive off Hopyard Road in Pleasanton.

Pleasant Meadows' pastoral-like environment and sweeping views of the countryside provide the commuter with a welcome relidf from tensions," Rocca observed. "Set against a backdrop of peaceful California mountains, oak and madrone trees on the area's gently rolling hills furnish the ultimate in relaxation."

Gaffers & Sattler electric eye level range and double oven (one self-cleaning), kitchen hood with decorative panel, dishwasher, and disposal are provided in all Pleasant Meadows garden-view kitchens, along with ceramic tile counter tops, prefinished birch cabintets, and spacious breakfast nooks.

"Families who move into a Pleasant Meadows home will find an invigorating outdoor atmosphere matched by indoor excellence," Rocca explained, adding, "The community, in addition to having the most desired features, has been constructed with an abundance of living area, quality materials, craftsmanship, and lasting design."

Other important amenities in the development include inside laundry areas with 22 wiring and dryer venting, attached two-car garages, pre-wired telephone outlets, forced air heating, glass-lined water heater, vinyl Corlon no-wax entry, sliding aluminum windows and patio door with screens, full fencing with gate, wide overhanging eaves, weatherstripped entry door, underground utilities, full facia gutters, concrete driveways, and ducts provided for optional future air-conditioning.

"In the Madrone, a four-bedroom, two and one-half bath, two-story plan, activity areas are effectively separated from rest areas," Rocca said. "The master bedroom suite with full-length double wardrobe closets, dressing area and compartmented bath is truly spacious. Two other bedrooms are located on the upper floor also along with a full second bath."

"Downstairs, the fourth bedroom may be utilized as a den, library, or sewing room," he continued. "A spacious living room with corner fireplace and powder room are conveniently situated off the central entrance hall, while the kitchen and family room create a large open activity area that will be the center of many family get-togethers."

"Baths, with the latest in compartmented styling, feature cultured marble vanity tops, handsomely appointed chrome fixtures, decorator selected vinyl Corlon no-wax floors, and ceramic tile wainscoting," Rocca noted.

"Some plans include vaulted ceilings and insulated walls and ceilings," the builder concluded.

Excellent schools, churches of most faiths, fine shopping and professional services are close by. Recreational attractions like Amador Valley Community Park, Youth Sports Park, the Alameda County Fairgrounds, and Castlewood Country Club are also just minutes away.

Standard Pacific Corporation is a major diversified builder and developer, with operations in the greater San Francisco Bay Area, Los Angeles, San Diego and Chicago. The firm is publicly-owned and listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges.

To reach Pleasant Meadows, take Highway 680 to Highway 580 east. Take the Hopyard Road turnoff and turn right at Hansen Drive to the development.

Barbara Skobielew gets ready for a spin around town in the new Elcar. The electric car, now available at AUTO BUYERS in Livermore, will travel up to 40 miles on a single charge of electricity at speeds up to 40 miles per hour.

Electric car makes debut

Electric automobiles have come to Livermore!

The little white machine driving all over town during the past week is the Italian made Elcar, now on display and available at Auto Buyers, 1453 First Street, Livermore.

The 1400-pound vehicle will travel up to 40 miles on a single electric charge and moves along at about 40 miles an hour.

Charging the Elcar, according to Ralph Skobielew, owner of Auto Buyers, costs about six cents. Charging the eight batteries which are carried in a slide out compartment under the car, requires only a few hours and is accomplished on house current with a charger which is provided with the automobile.

By having the batteries below the frame a very low center of gravity is achieved which contributes greatly to the car's handling stability and driving safety.

Driving the Elcar is extremely simple. A large switch, or driving controller, provides three forward speeds and one reverse. Steering wheel, brakes and accelerator pedals are conventional.

Given its low maintenance requirements, the Elcar's $3395 price tag seems modest. There is no gas to buy (ever) no oil, no tune ups, no antifreeze and no pollution of any kind. The high strength fiberglass body will never rust, requires only an occasional wash, and has pretty fair lines, considering its revolutionary nature.

Elcar carries two people, plus baggage, in reasonable comfort at legal speeds and for almost no cost. An optional trailer is available for towing the light machine behind a recreational of other vehicle, making it a vacation and fun car as well as a practical form of transportation.

35 mpg.* Not bad for a luxury car.

The Peugeot 504 diesel gets better mileage than a lot of so-called economy cars—27 mpg in town and 35 mpg on the road, according to 1975 EPA Federal tests.
Yet the Peugeot still gives you the luxuries of 4-wheel independent suspension, 4-wheel power assisted disc brakes, Michelin steel-belted radial tires and fully reclining front bucket seats—all under one standard sunroof.
*Actual mileage depends on where and how you drive and other variables.

Gate admission, parking and minirail numbers

Fair revenues jump 12.1 per cent

Preliminary figures for the 1975 California State Fair indicate it was a success.

Unaudited figures for revenues from gate admission, parking and the minirail show an overall jump of 12.1 per cent in revenues despite Fair management's decision to discontinue the 50-cent admission charge for children 6-12.

Preliminary totals show gate admissions at $599,078.35 as compared to $576,675.47 in 1974, an increase of 3.88 per cent. This means there actually was an increase in adult admissions in 1975, since the 1974 revenue totals include many children in the 50-cent category.

Parking revenues jumped from $117,191.82 in 1974 to $163,040.87 in 1975, and minirail revenues were $86,026.36 this year as opposed to $62,661.06 a year ago.

The past race meet proved a banner one, despite its one-day overlap with the Tanforan meet at Bay Meadows.

Total mutuel handle was $9,309,319. That figure represents a record for the race meet since the Fair moved to Cal Expo, and included two million-dollar days, both of which established all-time one-day betting records.

Daily average at the track was $664,951.35, also a record. Overall, the mutuel handle was up 5.32 per cent over 1974, and the latter was a record-shattering year in which the Fair experienced a 37.2 per cent gain in handle.

Total attendance for the 1975 State Fair was 761,677, a decrease of 20,959 from last year.

"Beyond all this," says interim manager Harrison Cutler, "every indication we've seen tells us the 1975 State Fair was an 'artistic' success."

Deadline nears for state program

Sept. 30 is the deadline for needy aged, blind or disabled Valley residents who own their own home to apply for state benefits.

Under the Excess Value Home program, people who own their own home but have less than $1,500 in property may get money back from the state. The program is designed for people who are not eligible for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments because their home is worth more than $25,000.

Anyone who has been refused eligibility in the past because of the value of their home should contact the Alameda or Contra Costa County welfare department. Those seeking aid for the first time should apply at their local social security office.

Advanced amateur photography class planned at Dublin High

Who was Armand Sabbatier and how has his name come to be associated with a process that, until recently, photographers have called "solarization"?

That and many other equally fascinating questions are likely to pop up in an advanced photography class being offered through Dublin High School's Adult Education program. The class, intended for knowledgeable amateur photographers, begins Thursday at 7 p.m.

"The beauty of this class," says Will Johnson, who teaches it, "is that the things we talk about and the things we do are determined by the class members themselves. They decide what subjects they want to get involved with, they tell me what they want covered! The result is very satisfying to the students and to me. Every quarter is different. Many of the students repeat the class because, next quarter, we get into topics which weren't covered this time."

Registration fee for the class is $4. Class meetings are 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday evenings starting with the Sept. 25 meeting.

Persons who desire more information may call 462-5500.

Nine pass real estate test

Mike Connolly, director of continuing education for the Amador Valley Adult Education has announced that nine students of the real estate license preparation class have passed their state examination for real estate salesman this past summer.

The nine who have passed their exams include Lewis Havens of Fremont, Cheryl Enge and Robert Sopwith of Pleasanton, Cliff Marcussen and Lillian Marcussen of Livermore, Fran Andrews of Dublin and Theresa Law, Joanne Oertwig and Karen Doran, also Pleasanton.

The new license preparation class will start Tuesday, Sept. 23 and will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. every Tuesday and Thursday at Amador Valley High School. This fall quarter will end Dec. 12.

Registration fee is $4 and the fee for book and materials is $10.

For further information, call Adult Education days at 462-5500, Monday and Wednesday evenings at 828-6410 or Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 846-2818.

Pleasanton planners mull Hopyard rezoning

PLEASANTON — The planning commission will hold a public hearing Oct. 8 to determine whether five acres near the northeast corner of Hopyard Road and Valley Avenue should be used for commercial purposes.

The property, presently zoned for high-density residential development, could be used for retail offices, professional offices, public buildings, institutions, or medium or high-density residences if the general plan is amended.

The commission has proposed amending the plan to allow the change.

The commission at its 8 p.m. meeting that evening in the Pleasanton Justice Court will also consider rezoning land to allow expansion of the Shell service station on First Street and Vineyard Avenue.

City staff has determined the rezoning would not create any significant harm to the environment.

Commissioners also will consider Frank Pozar's request for a conditional use permit to allow a business office in a proposed building on the northwest corner of Hopyard Road and West Las Positas Boulevard.

City staff said that construction of an office building in the shopping cnter would not harm the environment.

Victor Lund Jr. will also seek a variance to allow fewer parking spaces for his proposed restaurant and office building at 234 Main St.

PLEASANTON — The West Wind Youth Board of Pleasanton Youth Inc. (PYI) will sponsor a public car wash Saturday, Sept. 27 at the Union service station on the corner of Main Street and Stanley Boulevard.

The 99-cent car wash will be from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m., and proceeds will be used for purchase of a new stereo system for the center.
